1. WILMSEN Edwin Land Filled with Flies
Political Economy of the Kala hari
Chicago-London University of Chicago Press 1989 402 This is very important but also very problematic book Its importance derives from the radical but highly learned challenge to all claims for an anthropology of Kalahari foragers As Wilmsen states 324 in his closing paragraph It is useless to speak about

Journeys with Flies - Edwin N. Wilmsen Whacking flies with a fly swatter - or trying to - is one of the most common forms of "controlling" house flies, and if you have only one or two, it may even be the most effective. But to get rid of The flies will be unable to escape, and will drown in the vinegar. Put some vinegar in a bowl and mix in a few drops of dish soap. The dish soap will disrupt the surface tension of the vinegar, causing the flies to drown if they try to land on the surface of the liquid. Set out an open red wine bottle with a tiny amount of red wine left in it.

5 Steps for Indoor House Fly Control

Starting a week or so before Christmas my entire house has been filled with flies. Every room you walk into you're guaranteed to see at least one flying around; sometimes there will be six or seven. The worst is my bedroom where when I'm reading before I go to sleep they will all fly over to my reading light and land on my head and face. As I type this they are buzzing around my computer ...
