The phrasing indicates that the beginning, or the end, of something is not a point in time, but an event that unfolded over time. So the beginning phase (or the end phase) can itself have a beginning and an end. The implication of "the end of the beginning" is that "even though this has been going on for some time, we still have a long way to go."

"End of the Beginning" is a song by English rock band Black Sabbath featured on the album 13. According to lyricist Geezer Butler, the song deals with the fear of how "technology is going to completely take over the human race", inspired particularly by cloning: "It seems like eventually, people are going to clone the Beatles and stuff like that."
